

VÖLKE

THREADING SOLUTIONS

Hello, and thank you for reading our latest newsletter. From now on, you can look forward to even more exciting updates from us - we currently have so many projects in the pipeline that we simply have to tell you about and share with you. Today we're covering three topics: the 2025 Remscheid Company Run, a practical repair tip for oil drain plugs, and the new jerseys for Düsseldorfer EG.

Remscheid Company Run 2025

Sports, team spirit, and tons of motivation: Once again this year, the VÖLKE team gave it their all at the Remscheid Company Run. We ran together not only for fitness, but above all for the sense of togetherness - and had a lot of fun doing it. The company run is always a highlight for us because it shows how strong our team spirit is, even outside the workplace. Find out what impressions and pictures we brought back from the run here:

How do I repair a defective oil drain plug?

A defective oil drain plug can quickly cause problems – but with the right tools and the right approach, repairs are often easier than you might think. In our latest practical tip, we show you how to reliably repair a damaged plug and what really matters when doing so. With the right solutions from VÖLKEL, you not only save time, but also ensure that your engine remains reliably sealed. You can find the step-by-step instructions and our recommendations here:

New jerseys for Düsseldorfer EG for the 2025/26 season

The Düsseldorf EG is starting the season with new jerseys – and we are once again at the forefront as their exclusive partner. We are particularly excited about the white alternate jersey, which is already a clear favorite for us. For us, this partnership is more than just sponsorship – it's genuine fandom and a strong commitment to a club that, like us, stands for passion and consistency. More information about the new jerseys is available here:
